

Where SLPs get evidence for clinical practice

SLPs need to know the evidence for best practice and be able to find it fast.

The Informed SLP team reads 400+ research articles published across the scope every month to give SLPs clinically-actionable treatment and assessment skills in our research reviews.

How we make SLP life easier...

- No more outdated CE libraries. Our searchable database makes it easy to find effective, up-to-date information on topics like late talkers and aphasia the latest treatments for rare diagnoses, strategies for collaboration with caregivers and other professionals.
- Never lose information that is important to your unique caseload. Bookmark reviews and save them to folders in your personalized library.
- No more hour-long continuing education courses. We track by the minute. Simply earn credit by answering a question after reading or listening a review.

A little intro to our database...

The screenshot shows a search bar at the top with the text "Search Reviews". Below it are filter tabs: "Issues", "Sections", "Topics", "CE Available" (with a checkbox), and "Clear Filters". A callout "Use filters to find what you need" points to the "Clear Filters" button. Below the filters is a "Review" button. A callout "Add reviews to folders for quick access later" points to this button. To the right of the "Review" button are icons for a plus sign, a play button, and a printer. A callout "Listen to or print research reviews" points to these icons. Below the "Review" button is the text "SPEECH SOUND DISORDER • BIRTH THROUGH HIGH SCHOOL". Below this is the title "Need an autism screener? Here are 21 good options." followed by a paragraph: "What's an SLP's role in early autism screening and evaluations, and what tools are available to help? We're here to guide you through your options—including many that are free. Make sure to check out our printable table!". Below the paragraph are the details "September 2023", "4 comments", "20 minutes", and an "Expand +" button. A callout "The CE minutes you can earn by reading this review" points to the "20 minutes" text. To the right of the paragraph is a thumbnail image of a document. A callout "Clinical resources included with this research review" points to this thumbnail.

How we make management easier...
